Yellow warning
Snow & Ice

Between 10:00 Wed 30 Dec 2020 and
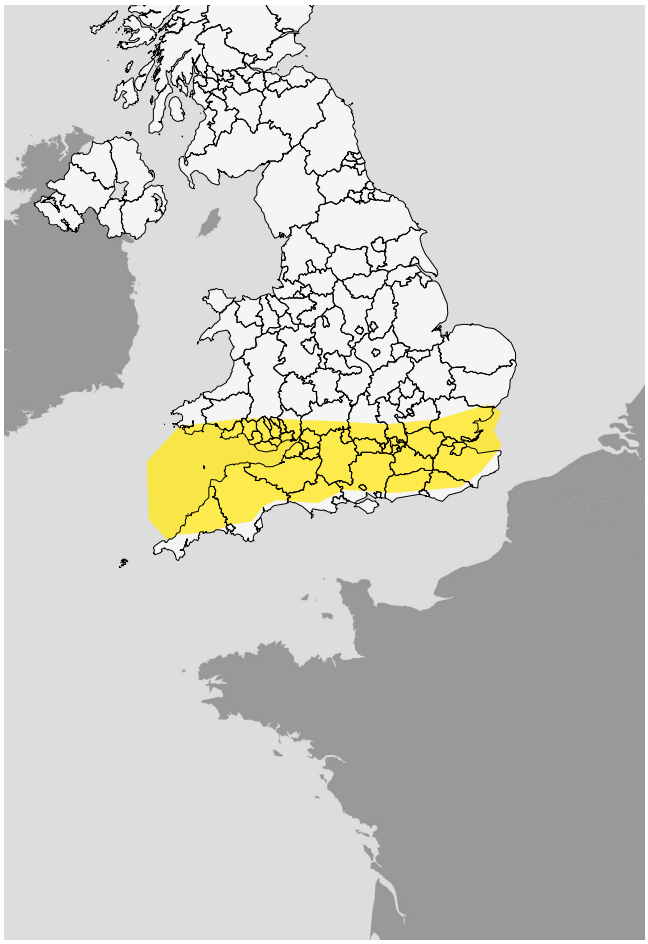
06:00 Thu 31 Dec 2020



A small chance of disruption from snow and ice.

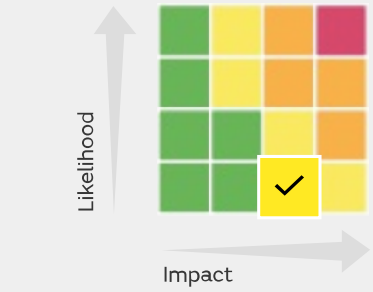
What to expect

- There is a slight chance that bus and train services may be delayed or cancelled, with some road closures and longer journey times
- There is a small chance of travel delays on roads with some stranded vehicles and passengers, along with delayed or cancelled rail and air travel
- A slight chance that power cuts may occur, with the potential to affect other services, such as mobile phone coverage
- A small chance of injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces

Further details

An Atlantic frontal system looks likely to bring rain into parts of southwestern Britain on Wednesday. As this moves further east into colder air there is a chance of this rain turning to snow. The extent of any snow is very uncertain, but 2 to 5 cm could fall across a swathe of southern Wales and southern England, with a small chance of 10 to 15 cm settling in a few places, most likely on high ground above 200 metres.

As the rain and snow clears on Wednesday night there is a risk of widespread ice forming on untreated surfaces.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts
